This board is constructed of two thicknesses of wood, a portion in the upper board being turned out so as to admit of what Buhl Work and Marquetry (Dover Woodworking) be termed a turn-table; this is so bevelled at the edge that the circular portion, when inserted from the lower side, before the boards are screwed together, cannot come out, but can readily be turned round at will, or by a screw it can be fixed in any position for the time.
