Finding and fixing those processes is part of the work of the new HR. Employee ownership has a demonstrated ability to increase job quality, skill building, and employee retention. Perhaps the hardest and most important challenge facing many companies in the CDFI industry. Based on the experiences of four CDFIs, this chapter explains current approaches to quality job creation, identifies barriers to CDFI involvement in this area, and makes recommendations to expand this work. For example, they can design and implement a system that allows departments to share administrative services. As a result, the interests of low-income jobseekers and employers are now more aligned. Are you sure you want to delete this list? What matters more is that an architecture be articulated explicitly.
